JOHN W. DECAMP - LOBBYIST;
CORRUPTION OF STATE OFFICIAL

This investigation was initiated as a result of an

By way of background, the Nebraska Legislature is a single house or unicameral Legislature whose 49 members (called State Senators) are elected on a nonpartisan basis. Half of the Legislature's members are elected every two years. Senators serve four-year terms. Senators are paid an annual salary of $12,000, with the state being permitted to reimburse for expenses during each Legislative session and actual Legislative expenses when the Legislature is not in session. The Legislature meets every year, meeting for 90 Legislative days in odd years and 60 Legislative days in even years.

Legislative committees hold public hearing on bills under consideration on Monday through Friday afternoons during the sessions. There are 13 standing committees, which hold public hearings on the bills referred to them. Four select committees assist in the administration of the Legislature. Special Committees may be established to consider other issues. All members of the Legislature, except the speaker, serve on one or more standing committees. Members, including the speaker, may serve on any number of select or special committees.

Seven days' notice is given for each committee hearing. All committees keep records of their proceedings, which are open to the press and the public. After a hearing, a committee may vote to either kill, hold, or advance a bill to the floor of the Legislature. If a bill is reported on favorably by a committee, it is placed on General File, where it is considered in its turn, or as determined by the speaker. If the Legislature, after consideration, decides to advance the bill, it is sent to Enrollment and Review. It then is placed on Select File for second consideration by the Legislature. All debate is recorded and transcribed. A bill, when advanced, is sent to the Committee on Enrollment and Review for engrossment before Final Reading and Passage. Printed copies of the bill in its final form must be available to the Senators for at least two Legislative days before Final Reading. Bills may not be voted on for Final Passage until at least five Legislative days after the bill was introduced, and one Legislative day after it is placed on Final Reading. If a bill is passed, it is signed by the President of the Legislature, certified by the Clerk of the Legislature, and sent to the Governor for signature or veto.

The NEADB was created by the Legislature in 1986 to establish an ethanol and fructose development program. This program is designed to provide for: 1) expanded use of Nebraska agricultural products; 2) efficient and less polluting energy sources and reserves which all make Nebraska more energy-independent and retain Nebraska dollars in the state's economy; 3) development of protein which will be more efficiently stored and marketed to foreign nations; and 4) alternative local outlets for Nebraska agricultural products which can be particularly utilized in times of depressed grain prices. Local outlets may include ethanol and other agricultural by-product production and distribution plants and facilities. Through the use of a checkoff on corn, wheat, and grain sorghum, Nebraska has established a fund for making grants to Governmental bodies, to assist in the construction or acquisition of ethanol or fructose production facilities. The NEADB consists of the following persons:

- 1) The members of the Nebraska Gasohol Committee.
- 2) A representative of the Nebraska Wheat Development, Utilization, and Marketing Board.
- 3) A representative of the Corn Development, Utilization, and Marketing Board.

[redacted]
4) A representative of the Grain Sorghum Development, Utilization, and Marketing Board.

5) A representative of the public power industry. The Governor appoints the members in categories 2, 3, 4, and 5. The administrator of the Nebraska Gasohol Committee provides the board with technical assistance. The board meets eight times annually with members receiving compensation of $60 per day engaged in board business, not exceeding $6,000 per year, plus reimbursement for necessary expenses.

The Nebraska Gasohol Committee (NGC) was created by the 1971 Legislature to sponsor research and develop industrial uses of agricultural ethanol alcohol. State law stipulates that special consideration is to be given to its use as a fuel when blended with gasoline for motor vehicles. The committee administers the Agricultural Alcohol Fuel Tax Fund, which consists of money received from the State's Highway Trust Fund. The commission utilizes this money to promote gasohol and help fund alcohol production plans. The NGC consists of seven members appointed by the Governor for four-year terms, subject to confirmation by the Legislature. Four members must be actually engaged in farming in Nebraska; one member must be actively engaged in the petroleum industry; and two members must be actively engaged in business in the state. No more than four members may belong to the same political party. The NGC meets eight times yearly and reports to the Legislature each year. Members receive compensation of $15 per day engaged in committee business plus reimbursement for their expenses.

The NGC is assisted by an advisory committee consisting of three persons: one each representing the DEPARTMENT OF ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT, THE UNIVERSITY OF NEBRASKA, and the DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE. [redacted]

ADC had also purchased a savings and loan which became known as AMERICAN DIVERSIFIED SAVINGS AND LOAN (ADSL), also in Costa Mesa, California. In approximately 1986, the FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN INSURANCE CORPORATION (FSLIC) took over the savings and loan company and subsequently took over running ADC-1 as the funds to purchase that plant came from the ADSL. NIAP, with DECAMP being listed as the Counsel. The purpose of the corporation as listed on the Constitution of NIAP is to, "Function as a trustee for the benefit of the individual farmers and grain producers of this state who provided funds to the ethanol check-off fund and promote and increase markets for Nebraska grain crops. This is to be accomplished by obtaining, owning, and operating ethanol production facilities within the state with all profits from the operations going specifically and directly to development of the ethanol industry of Nebraska; obtaining grants from the ethanol authority to accomplish said purposes, and specifically obtaining grants so that the ethanol plant at Hastings can be purchased for the benefit of the above-named farmers who provided the funds to the ethanol check-off fund; and to do such other activities as will directly benefit and enhance the development of ethanol and the feed grains industry in the state of Nebraska. NIAP made a bid for the purchase of the ADC-1 plant and indicated to FSLIC that NEADB would be supplying the funds for the purchase". The constitution of NIAP also makes provisions for salaries for the officers of NIAP. No officers were listed in the original filing with the Secretary of State.
